NO ROOM FOR HIM AT LOGANSPORT

Case of S. Kosanovitch of Lake Co. May Become Cause Celebre

BULLETIN
CROWN POINT, IND., July 30.—Representatives of the sheriff's office met today at Logansport to discuss the case of S. Kosanovitch, a former soldier in the British army, who since his discharge, has become insane and is confined to an insane hospital at Logansport. The unfortunate man could not be sent to Logansport until the authorities there sent for him and no criticism could be directed to the Lake county officials.

(TIMES BUREAU AT STATE CAPITAL)
INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 30.—The fact that Sam Kosanovitch, a former soldier in the British army, who since his discharge, has become insane and is confined to an insane hospital at Logansport, has been brought to the attention of Dr. Walter A. Jellison, of Cincinnati, O., who is in charge of the neuro-psychiatric division of the public health service in the Seventh district.

BUTLER GIVES DETAILS
The details of the case were given to Dr. Jellison by Amos W. Butler, secretary of the board of state charities, who has been investigating the case. Mr. Butler has received a letter from Dr. Jellison, in which he declared the case to be a "sad commentary on the laws of the state of Indiana." Dr. Jellison pointed out that the United States government through the public health service is under agreement to take care of men who served in the allied armies, who are suffering from mental or physical diseases.

BRITISH ARMY PRIVATE
Mr. Butler said Tuesday that Kosanovitch, who was a private in the Middlesex regiment, British army, during the war, was adjudged insane in the spring. The case was reported to Mr. Butler by Dr. Jellison. Dr. Jellison wrote the county official in charge and asked what disposition had been made of the case. He received a reply on May 20, he said in his letter to Mr. Butler, saying that the former soldier was to be transferred to the Northern Indiana Hospital at Logansport. On June 24, said Dr. Jellison, this transfer had not been made.

COMMENTARY ON CONDITIONS
"It is a sad commentary on the laws of the state of Indiana," said Dr. Jellison, "that any insane person of the community, whether a legal resident or not, has to be cared for in a jail like a criminal, because of inadequate provision for his care in a hospital. We certainly would not have stood for this jail care of this man for one minute, if we could have known of it earlier."

"We do not yet know what apology we will be able to make to the British government for such gross mismanagement of the case."

"We thank you for calling the matter to our attention, and we ask if there is any way in which you can in the future take action to see that these cases are properly cared for, that you do so, and rest assured that in doing so the public health service will appreciate the courtesy until such time as we can assume the burden of transfer to our own hospital."

NO REPORT, HE SAYS
Mr. Butler pointed out that officials of the board of state charities did not take action in the case earlier because they had received no report of it. County officials, he said, are somewhat lax in making reports. The board has given special attention to the handling of cases of insane former service men. When reports are made showing that persons adjudged insane are former service men, the officials of the board at once take the action to have the men confined in the insane hospitals. The reports, Mr. Butler said, often do not show the fact that the persons served in the military forces. The insane hospitals are instructed to give preference to ex-service men in receiving new patients.

Mr. Butler refused to make public the name of the Indiana public official and county which had kept the man in jail.

(SPECIAL TO THE TIMES)
CROWN POINT, Ind., July 30.—Charles Cole, the young farm hand who murdered Chris Tachler, the Winfield farmer, in cold blood last May, was sentenced to life imprisonment here by Judge Martin Smith, after pleading guilty to murder in the second degree. Cole had a row with Tachler because the farmer refused to let him take his auto to take a girl to a dance and deliberately killed him as he sat at a table. He was from Marshalltown, Ia., and is the fifth murderer to be sentenced within a period of two weeks at the present session.

WOMEN WILL HAVE THEIR OWN POLITICAL PARTY

Plans For Calling Convention To Organize It Are Already Under Way

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT I. N. SERVICE)
NEW YORK, July 30.—A woman's political party will be launched as soon as the campaign for the ratification of the suffrage amendment is ended. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, society woman and militant suffrage leader announced here today.

Plans for calling a convention to organize it are now under way. If there is not sufficient time to get into action for the November election, a woman's strike against voting will be urged.

TO HAVE OWN CANDIDATES
The new feminist party will enter the political field with its own candidates. No man will have a voice in it; no "boss" will indicate its policies, said Mrs. Belmont.

The purpose of forming a separate party for women, she said, "is to put before the voters a new political program with the fresh touch and serious point of view of women."

No money will be lacking to carry out its aims, according to Mrs. Belmont, who is one of the wealthiest women in America and has been one of the largest contributors to the suffrage cause. She said many of the women of independent fortunes, who have financially supported the fight for suffrage will contribute generously to the new party.

CLAIM NATION-WIDE DEMAND
There is a nation-wide demand among the women for a party of their own, she declared. Her recent appeal to the women voters to stay out of the old parties and refrain from voting until they are "free from man domination in politics, has brought hundreds of letters from all parts of the country pleading support to her movement."

"Any logical woman knows that if she joins a man's party she becomes nothing but a subordinate," said Mrs. Belmont. "She is never placed in positions of intelligence. Her political power is used, but she has no voice."

SEX WAR NOT FEARED
"There need be no fear of the new party will precipitate a sex war. It will not oppose man's interests. On the contrary its program will appeal to the best type of men as well as to the best type of women."

"There is no sex antagonism between broad-minded men and women, but it is a fact that men and women cannot work together in the same organization. This is because it is the male's instinct to dominate. Women of dignity and self respect will not tolerate this. In organizations in which men and women work together the men play the game of arousing jealousy among the women."

SAYS MEN HAVE MADE MESS
"The men have run the world for centuries and have made a mess of it. It is now time for the women, the conservative element of the race, to take a hand. In this country we have now only the lowest type of leadership. Though the male vote will be barred from its councils men may sometimes be nominated for office by the new party, Mrs. Belmont said."

"There may be office which a woman is not so fit to fill as a man because of lack of experience. I might add, however, that I could name any number of women more fit to be president of the U. S. than either the present democratic or republican candidates."

POLICE IN RAID ON ALLEGED RESORT

White and Colored Folks Alike Booked in Connection With Case.

After innumerable unsuccessful attempts to wipe out the alleged highly immoral State-Line hotel at Plummer and State Line streets, Detective Slinger and Officers Reasley and Fandrell last night raided the place and arrested Dick Kelger, negro, on a charge of running a disorderly house, and Philip Kroff, 237 Indiana ave., and Mike Glick, 16 Plummer ave., both white, were booked for entering a disorderly house.

Viola Raines, young colored woman, who gave her address as 763 East 41st st., Chicago, was held by police as state's witness.

Arraigned this morning in the city court, Judge Klotz granted a continuance of the case to August 28, on the plea of Attorney Sproat, representing the defendants, when he said that he hadn't had time to prepare his argument and was leaving tomorrow for a two weeks vacation.

The young woman, held as material witness, was permitted to take the stand, obviating the necessity of keeping her confined until the date of the trial.

She said she had come here from Chicago to visit a girl friend. She intended to return to her home last evening, she said. In the meantime, Kelger had introduced her to a man. She accepted his proffers. Later a second man was sent to her room by Kelger, she asserted. As she was leaving the building about 11 p. m., Kelger for the third time asked her to entertain a man. He proved to be a detective.

G. O. P. ALARM OVER FAILURE OF LEGISLATORS

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE)
INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 30.—Alarm ran high among republican leaders today over the failure of the general assembly, in session since Monday, to pass any legislation. Some kind of a legislative session, said party chiefs began to arrive in the city to attempt to force some kind of action so as to speed adjournment of the session. Gov. Goodrich was compelled to forego a trip to the republican editorial association meeting at Turkey Run in order to take his hand in straightening out the legislative muddle.

The senate convened for a short time this morning, then recessed. After a five minute session the house also recessed. Both houses will re-convene at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Meanwhile conference committees wrangled over the Kiper cure all and Johnson home rule tax bills. Whether or not the cure all bill shall be a bare legislative measure, as proposed in the Tutill house bill, or shall also include tax adjustments, up to local units as outlined in the Kiper senate measure was the question which balked the legislative machinery today.

Gov. Goodrich returned to his office today with the avowed intention of forcing an agreement. He expressed the opinion that the conferees will be able to break the deadlock today and that adjournment will be 7 o'clock.

Gov. Goodrich explained that he was willing to go before the senate to explain the administration's stand on legalization, but the majority, he said "didn't seem to want me."

WANTS NEXT GENERATION TO PAY DEBT

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE)
PARIS, July 30.—The suggestion that Germany's time limit for the payment of indemnity should be extended to a century so that future German generations would feel the punishment of war was made today by Jean Bey, noted French financial expert and economic writer.

"In the course of the discussions regarding the method of payment by Germany two most important points have been lost sight of," declared M. Bey.

"In the first place the term of years over which the payments are to be made should not be limited to thirty, forty or even fifty years. It should be at least 100, so that the next generation of Germans would have to pay a share. In the case of an individual, responsibility for payment of an amount due is prolonged until his death unless paid. Since a nation has an indefinite life why should not a similar procedure be adopted?"

In the second place, where the payments of reparations should have absolute preference over all interest paid to Germany by their government on war loans. Germany floated during the war about 200,000,000,000 marks in war loans, or about 250,000,000,000 francs at the pre-war rate of exchange. These loans were almost entirely subscribed at home. Why should not the allies force Germany who subscribed to these loans to be content with, say 1 per cent interest during a period of 20 years?"

TRUTH OF AIR TRIP IS REVEALED

E. N. Bunnell Up In Air Hanging On To Nothing Is Only One Experience He Had

Friends of E. N. Bunnell, Hammond automobile salesman and one of the Calumet region's most consistent boosters, had been worried over his actions ever since he went south with Lieut. Bob Blair on Decoration day to bring an aeroplane to Hammond from Chattanooga, Tenn.

Bunnell for several weeks after that trip hadn't been himself, but he refused to explain his condition. The folks all knew that the trip had been abandoned down around Bowling Green, Ky., because of "engine trouble" but that was about all they could get out of him. Mention of aeroplanes caused him to start and act nervous and then close up like a clam.

Well, it was all explained the other day when Lieut. Blair dropped in for a little visit. He told the whole story and now that the load is off his mind Bunnell is genial and affable as ever.

It was a pretty exciting trip; much more so than the little telegram about "engine trouble" would ever lead folks to believe.

They left Chattanooga at 12:15 on Friday before Decoration day. The old plane hit it up to 100 miles per hour for 20 miles. Then trouble began. "The engine began to sputter and pop and miss fire," says E. N., "and I began to wonder where we would get off. I looked overboard straight down 4,000 feet and could see nothing but mountains and trees under us."

"Well," he continued, "since there was no landing place in sight, I decided that it wasn't for me to worry so I settled back and let Blair work out our salvation. Somehow or other he picked out a place to land. Only four of our spark plugs were working. He fixed them up and away we went again. We went about another hundred miles when the darned thing began to act up again."

Once more the pilot was able to pick out a flat spot in the hills and landed safely, but getting out was a different matter. It seems they had settled in a place where the hills were so steep that it was necessary to take the air as soon as possible and point the plane's nose just as near straight up as possible. When the repairs had been made they climbed aboard and started.

Only a few topmost limbs of a tall tree prevented them from making a getaway. The line caught on the under rigging of the plane and headed her towards the earth. The fall, however, was halted by smaller trees and there the plane hung nose downward.

Blair loosened his safety belt and climbed out but Bunnell, who was in the forward seat was not so fortunate. "I was hanging head down and couldn't get my feet and hands out anything so that I could take the weight off the belt," he says. "I tried to open the safety latch and unbuckle the straps, but couldn't budge them. Then the gasoline began to trickle past me and drop on the hot engine. That made me scramble harder than ever, but it did no good. At last Blair came to my assistance and cut the straps. I tumbled out and the minute we got to the ground the whole plane broke into flames."

Incidentally Mr. Bunnell was stung by a Tennessee "bill" as a result of the accident. Blair had borrowed Mr. Bunnell's watch and had it on a hook in the plane in front of his seat. The timepiece, worth several hundred dollars, had been given to him by Hammond by the National Cash Register company, when he broke all of the company's sales records in 1919.

After the fire they started searching for the watch, but could not find it. Bunnell told the bunch of gaping bystanders that if anyone found the watch and returned it to him in good condition he would reward him with $25. Even if badly damaged he would pay $10 if it was sent to him. Yesterday he received a package from a little burg in Kentucky. It was sent C. O. D. and Bunnell had to pay $25 before he could take it from the express office. When he opened it he found the watch, but it was so badly burned that it was almost unrecognizable.

New England Leaders of G. O. P. Snapped at Coolidge Notification

Accused East Chicago Officer Says Samoilas Offered Money to the Police.

"Another Marovich case," is what Chief of Police Ed. O'Donnell says of the suit filed against Officer John Lazar by John Samoilas of Indiana. Harwood, which he complains that he was "kicked" for $750 for protection which he never received.

"Samoilas was arrested by Lazar on a warrant for wife beating and at the time he made the arrest was still in the house," says O'Donnell. "The arrest for operation of a still followed."

After the arrest, O'Donnell says, Samoilas offered to pay any amount if the officers would only allow him his freedom but he was held and sent to Crown Point after being convicted.

Lazar has proved valuable in getting information concerning the operation of stills, the chief says, and for this reason there are a number of parties who wish to get him out of the way.

Lazar is making arrangement to fight the case which is now in court and has instructed his attorney to file a case for damages against Samoilas.

Two More Dates For Porch Parties

BY J. BART CAMPBELL
(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT I. N. SERVICE)
MARION, O., July 30.—Senator Warren G. Harding, republican nominee for president and his advisers were going ahead today with their plans for a continuation of his front porch campaign arrangements elsewhere he may decide to fill later on.

Two more dates on which the senator will receive delegations at his picturesque Marion home were announced.

The first in August 12, when he is to further explain his belief in the necessity of a protective tariff for the American industry to about 600 pottery workers of East Liverpool and Columbiana county, Ohio.

The second is September 25, when 1,000 members of the American Defense Society, a patriotic, preparedness organization, will headquarter at New York City, of which the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt was the first honorary president, are to journey here to listen to a speech on Americanism.

Senator Harding indicated today it was his purpose to receive and address groups interested in special subjects rather than to have large state delegations come here as they flocked to "Shadow Lawn" during President Wilson's front porch campaign when he ran for a second term.

By having a succession of groups of men and women gather about him on his spacious front porch here, Senator Harding's friends are confident he can drive home his attitude on public questions more forcibly by a close personal appeal than by merely delivering set speeches to larger gatherings representing diverse interests.

AND THEY WANT MORE

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE)
SPRINGFIELD, ILL., July 30.—"Tightest nights in Springfield tonight because of the coal strike," by official decree.

Tomorrow is pay day among the miners. There are men in this district who will draw $210 for the last two weeks work without having worked the full time. The average pay envelope will contain approximately $100, a review of several company payrolls show.

WILSON ONLY HOPE OF COAL OPERATORS

CHICAGO, July 30.—Coal operators meeting here to discuss ways and means for ending the "unofficial strike" of miners, which already has partially paralyzed industries through the central west, declared today that only President Wilson can bring relief to the coal-less midwest.

The principal discussion among the operators here is whether they will meet the miners' representatives in a general wage conference, as suggested by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America. There is a division of opinion regarding the advisability of this.

The Indiana operators have definitely decided against such a plan without white house sanction, it was learned today.

"There is nothing we can do," said Phil M. Penna, head of the Indiana operators. "If we meet the miners we lay ourselves open to the charge of collusion. The wage question can only be opened with the permission of the government. President Wilson is the only one who can act."

Among other operators there is an insistent demand that something be done immediately. The great steel mills at Gary and Indiana Harbor are beginning to feel the pinch of coal shortage, and in Chicago many industries have been forced to curtail operations and shut down completely. Railroads have seized coal in transit. It is virtually impossible to obtain coal now for manufacturing purposes.

DO YOU WISH TO VISIT IN EUROPE?

For a brief period, young men of Hammond and vicinity will be given an opportunity to visit the war torn countries of Europe. The U. S. army is now open to a few enlistments for service in Germany to fill vacancies in the army of occupation.

When the war ended many young men expressed regret that they had never gotten across to Germany and frequently the remark was made that they would enlist again if they were assured that they would be sent there for service. The opportunity is here. The war department wants 957 men for the infantry and from five to thirty men each for different positions in the cavalry, field artillery, quartermasters corps and supply service. (All men accepted will be sent at once to Fort Slocum, N. Y., for enlistment.)

Reports on the number of recruits will be sent to Washington hourly by Sergeant Cramer and other recruiting officers over the country and as soon as the quota is filled no more will be accepted.

NOW THEY WANT A DIVORCE

Jennie Mae Fogle and her husband, Guy Ellsworth Fogle, hadn't been getting along very well together for quite a while but it was not until Guy practically broke up the home two weeks ago that they separated. Today the woman filed her petition for a divorce in the Hammond superior court.

The Fogles were married in West Hammond six years ago, but have been living in Hammond much of the time since then. Fogle, according to his wife, would call her vile and indecent names and struck and beat her so that she was greatly humiliated before her neighbors. He would remain away from home with other men and women until 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning and when she asked him where he had been, he would inform her that it was none of her business.

On July 15, Guy took the three children away and at the same time sold their furniture. Added to this he accused her with being too friendly with one of their boarders, a statement which Mrs. Fogle says is untrue. She is now asking for $1,000 alimony, the custody of the children and $25 per week for their support. Her attorney is I. I. Modjeska.

POLAND REFUSES THESE PEACE TERMS

PARIS, July 30.—Poland will refuse absolutely to agree to Russian peace terms calling for disarmament and the establishment of a soviet in Poland, according to official advice by the foreign office today. Nor will Poland accede to the attempt of soviet Russia to make Poland a "bridge" between Russia and Germany. It is reported that orders from Moscow to the Red army to cease its advance were refused by the field commander.

POLICE ARE MARKING TIME

DETROIT, Mich., July 30.—Police here today were "marking time" in the Detroit trunk mystery case awaiting word from Saltillo, Mex., in connection with the requested arrest in that city of O. J. Fernandez. Fernandez is suspected of being Eugene Leroy who is charged with killing his wife, Katherine Jackson-Leroy and shipping her body from Detroit to New York.
